

Bring clean energy to your customers without cost.

Introducing a low-cost, low-risk way to offer your customers the environmental benefits and financial rewards of clean, renewable energy.

The Clean Energy Collective (CEC) is leading the nation in offering turnkey community solar solutions that work for utilities, while offering your rate payers the opportunity to help you meet clean energy and renewable portfolio standards (RPS) – all without capital investment or impact to utility staff. With the CEC you can even choose to launch your own utility-branded community solar program, fully administered by the CEC and without any cost.

Customers own it. We make it work. You get the credit.

It's smart. In cooperation with local utilities, the CEC builds, sells, operates and administers community solar facilities collectively owned by participating utility customers – essentially we can do everything. It's cost effective. The facilities are optimally sited for production, grid integration and peak load needs – helping utilities meet RPS goals through long-term managed solutions without increasing expenditures or introducing network risk. It's easy. The CEC's RemoteMeter® system automatically calculates monthly bill credits and integrates with your existing billing systems – eliminating any burdens on your staff.

Take the Next Step. Learn more about the Clean Energy Collective's turnkey solution. Free of charge, our team of experts will help you assess whether community solar is right for you and your customers, determine power purchase prices that make sense for the program and launch your own successful community solar program with the CEC. Let us demonstrate how easy and cost-effective going green can be, providing your utility with the praise and credit you deserve. Sit back, relax and bask in the glory of providing a solution your customers want.
